Message from the Minister

French-language services are a priority for government. Acadian Affairs has been working closely with departments, offices and agencies toward enhancing government's offer of valuable services in French for the Acadian and francophone community. The annual progress report is our opportunity to provide an update on the work that has been done, as well as give a glimpse of the work that is underway.

We know that new technology and social media are increasing the ability of communities to stay connected. Many of the highlights from this report are related to services and initiatives that are accessible online. Acadian Affairs wants to be part of the conversations that are happening online. I encourage all Nova Scotians to follow the government in French on social media, whether it is your first language or if it is something that you are learning for the first time.

Acadian Affairs has always encouraged people from the community to reach out to them to let them know their needs. By working collaboratively with our partners, government can better identify and prioritize work that needs to be done to best serve the community. I extend my sincere appreciation to the people in the public service for working tirelessly toward the continued development, delivery and promotion of French-language services. I would also like to thank Nova Scotians from the Acadian and francophone community for raising the issues that are important to them. It is my hope that by working together, we can continue to increase and enhance our offering of services in French.

Sincerely,

Michel P. Samson
Minister of Acadian Affairs

How we approach our work

French-language services within the Government of Nova Scotia

Acadian Affairs

Acadian Affairs oversees the implementation of the French-language Services Act and offers services and programs to provincial government departments and institutions to help them provide services in French. These include translation, French language training, funding for projects, policy advice, and tools such as the Bonjour! visual identification program.

Nova Scotia Strategic Plan for French-language Services

This government-wide plan for French-language services guides the development, delivery, and expansion of government services in French. The implementation of the plan is funded in part by the Canada – Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services.

French-language Services Coordinating Committee

This interdepartmental committee is made up of French-language services coordinators from 24 departments and offices. The executive director of Acadian Affairs acts as Chair. The committee advises the Minister of Acadian Affairs on the implementation of the French-language Services Act, develops guidelines and procedures, and serves as a forum for sharing best practices.

Designated public institutions

The French-language Services Regulations specify the government institutions to which the French-language Services Act applies and from which the Acadian and francophone community can expect to receive services in French. These designated public institutions include all departments, most offices, and many agencies. A complete list of institutions is available on the Acadian Affairs website.

French-language Services Coordinators

Working in designated public institutions, French-language services coordinators oversee a range of activities relating to French-language services. These typically include the preparation of an annual French-language Services Plan, and facilitating the development of policies, programs, and initiatives relating to French-language services.

Key performance indicators for French-language services

Government departments, offices, and agencies improved the services they offer in French in various ways during the 2014–2015 fiscal year. This section of the Progress Report outlines many of these improvements as well as key performance indicators for government as a whole. The progress shown is organized around the objectives of the Nova Scotia Strategic Plan for French-language Services for 2013-2018.

Objective 1: Leadership and policy direction

Champion and support the planning, administration, and policy development frameworks for the implementation of the French-language Services Act and its regulations.

Government institutions work to make the environment in which they operate more amenable to providing services in French, such as by instituting new policies and protocols to support French-language services. Several examples of this work are highlighted here.

Projects carried out by the French-language Services Coordinating Committee in 2014–2015

The French-language Services Coordinating Committee met regularly to develop guidelines and standards, and share best practices. Sub-committees were formed to address specific issues and report back to the full Coordinating Committee for approval. Their work touched the areas of French language training, active offer of French-language services, human resources, and communications guidelines. The Coordinating Committee also took some time to review its structure and determine priorities. Its Terms of Reference were reviewed and updated.

Reviewing the French language training program

At the end of the 2013-2014 fiscal year, the French-language Services Coordinating Committee carried out a broad evaluation of the French language training program offered to public servants. During 2014-2015, the working group reviewed the data collected and found that overall, 79% of participant respondents felt the French language training provided met their French language training needs. Participants also indicated that 50% utilized their French language skills at work and 70% used their skills at home and in their community.

Since the beginning of the program in 2004, approximately 6000 training spaces have been filled by provincial public servants wishing to improve their French language skills and become better able to provide services in French.

Based on the data collected, the sub-committee prepared a report that included five recommendations. During the 2015-2016 fiscal year, the sub-committee will work on an implementation plan to address the recommendations.

Taking a closer look at Active Offer

The Coordinating Committee established a new sub-committee at the end of 2013-2014 to examine the question of active offer of services in French. During 2014-2015, the sub-committee did a jurisdictional review and developed a definition of active offer of French-language services in Nova Scotia.

"The active offer of French-language services by the Government of Nova Scotia means that its public institutions proactively inform citizens when a service is available in French. Its purpose is to ensure that citizens feel comfortable expressing themselves in French when seeking a service and that the service provided in French is comparable to what is offered in English. The service in French is evident, accessible, readily available, and demonstrated in the form of a bilingual greeting, signage, or other means."

The sub-committee will continue its work in the 2015-2016 fiscal year to develop tools and resources to help promote and increase active offer of services in French.

Integration of French-language Services Human Resources Guidelines into the Fair Hiring Policy

The French-language Services (FLS) HR guidelines are designed to provide departments with a consistent protocol to guide the management of issues related to the delivery of French-language services and to clarify how to integrate consideration of French-language capacity into human resources planning (i.e. recruiting, hiring, and retaining).

A sub-committee reviewed and revised the guidelines to make them clearer and easier to use. Human resources professionals at the Public Service Commission were consulted in the process. These guidelines were also considered in the rewriting of the Fair Hiring Policy which now mention them.

Copies of the French-language Services Human Resources Guidelines are available in both English and French on the Public Service Commission website:

English: novascotia.ca/psc/pdf/about/policies/HR\_French\_Language\_Guidelines\_En.pdf

French: novascotia.ca/psc/pdf/about/policies/HR\_French\_Language\_Guidelines\_Fr.pdf

Measuring awareness of the French Communications Guidelines

During 2014-2015, Communications Nova Scotia did quantitative research with four groups of interest to measure the awareness level of the Communications Guidelines. Participants in the research study included the French-language services coordinators, Acadian Affairs staff, Communications Nova Scotia staff, and a group of provincial crown corporations, agencies, and public institutions.

Communications Nova Scotia will use the results of the survey to assist them with building greater awareness of the guidelines among their staff, as well as to assist staff in determining when information should be communicated in French.

Objective 2: Availability and accessibility of French-language services

Increase the prevalence and awareness of French-language services through active offer, communications, printed and electronic materials, and by increasing the capacity of the public service to offer services in French.

Expanding the French-language services they offer to the public is a priority of many government institutions. Examples of some of their progress are highlighted here.

Three individuals honoured for French-language service excellence

The 2015 Bonjour! Awards for Excellence in French-language Services recognized the hard work of three public servants.

The award for Excellence in Service Delivery to the Public was presented to Marilyn Wallace, a porter at the Yarmouth Hospital. Her warm, friendly and compassionate service in French provides a calming effect for patients, helping them in difficult circumstances.

The award for Excellence in Program Development was presented to Kelly Besler, a child-protection coordinator with the Department of Community Services. She played a key role in making the Nova Scotia Child Abuse Registry available in French.

Patricia Fricker-Bates, a recently retired French-language services representative for Nova Scotia Legal Aid, was the recipient of the award for Excellence in Leadership. Her leadership was instrumental as she provided French-language support, coordinated French language training for Legal Aid staff, and saw that the Brydges After Hours Duty Counsel Manual was translated.

Government news delivered in French

In 2014–2015, 141 news releases were issued in French to keep Acadians and francophones informed about a range of issues and government programs and services, including:

- An invitation to comment on the Nova Scotia education system
- The opening of new early childhood development centres across the province

The number of news releases issued by government can vary considerably from year to year due to factors such as special events, elections, and issues affecting public health and safety.

NEWS RELEASES ISSUED IN FRENCH

French-language services in the social media age

The provincial government continued to promote French-language services, news, and community events in French through two social media channels.

We continue to Tweet all about it

The provincial government's French-language Twitter account, @GouvNE, sent out more than 1,404 tweets in 2014–2015 and grew to 632 followers. The tweets are one of the ways government shares important information about French-language programs and services with the Acadian and francophone community. Here are a few examples.

Introducing “Affaires acadiennes” on Facebook

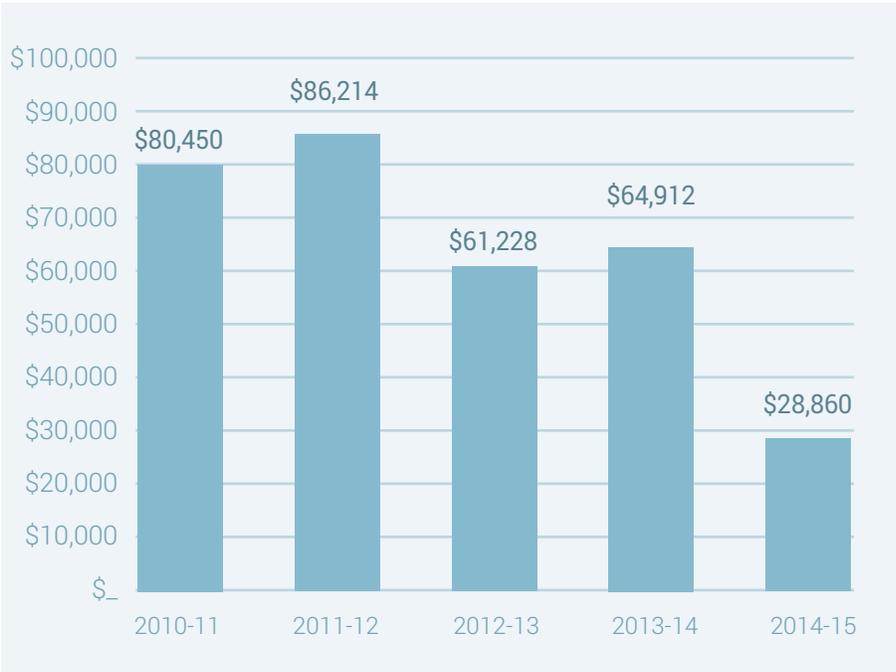

The French-language services Facebook page facebook.com/Affairesacadiennes was launched on September 17, 2014, just in time to encourage nominations for the Bonjour! Awards for Excellence in French-language Services. Between its launch date and March 31, 2015, there were 95 postings and 76 page likes. The page provides information on French-language services available from various government departments and institutions.

Radio and print advertising in French*

In 2014–2015, government institutions ran 28 campaigns in the province's French-language media to promote programs and services and to share important information with the public. Government advertises in Le Courrier de la Nouvelle-Écosse and on francophone community radio stations (CIFA, CKJM, CITU, and CKRH) to reach Acadian and francophones in Nova Scotia.

Overall, 2014-2015 media spend in both French and English was down compared to 2013-2014. These amounts exclude the media spend for Tourism Nova Scotia.

Websites and Web Content

Government institutions maintain a range of websites that provide valuable information to the public, many of which are separate from their corporate or institutional website.

In 2014–2015, 20 government institutions had the Bonjour! logo or a link leading to French-language content on the homepage of their website and 8 institutions had bilingual websites.

A website is deemed to be bilingual if its navigation menu is in French and links to French-language pages, and most of the content available on the English version site is available in French. The 8 institutions who have bilingual sites include:

- Acadian Affairs
- Communities, Culture and Heritage
- Employment Nova Scotia (part of Labour and Advanced Education)
- Immigration
- Intergovernmental Affairs
- Municipal Affairs
- Office of the Ombudsman
- Service Nova Scotia

Here are some examples of new French-language websites and website content published during the fiscal year.

Cultural competency workshops for government employees

In 2014–2015, Acadian Affairs offered five sessions of the Acadie at a Glance cultural competency training to 43 government employees. The workshop provides participants with a greater understanding of Nova Scotia's Acadian and francophone community and the Government of Nova Scotia's approach to delivery of French-language services.

Bonjour! visual identification program materials

The Bonjour! visual identification program is used by government institutions to let the public know that services are available in French. It includes lapel pins, desktop signs, posters and other program support materials which are generally used by French-speaking staff. In 2014–2015, 299 pieces of Bonjour! program materials were distributed to 10 government institutions.

French language training

Acadian Affairs offers French language courses through training providers to help improve government employees' ability to communicate with the public in French. Over the 2014–2015 fiscal year, 647 seats of French language training were taken up by government employees, of which 57% were at the Beginner level, 24% at the Intermediate level, and 19% at the Advanced level.

FRENCH LANGUAGE TRAINING ENROLMENTS BY LEVEL (%)

Working with municipalities

Government institutions supported municipalities with a few projects aimed at the Acadian and francophone community in 2014–2015, including:

- Continue to work with Halifax Regional Municipality (HRM) to help it build ties with the Acadian and francophone community (representation from several departments).
- Funding for the Municipality of Clare to help the community work on one of the priorities in its age-friendly communities plan. (Seniors)

Objective 3: Community engagement and outreach

Encourage the participation of the Acadian and Francophone community in the development of government policies with a view to improving the delivery of services in French.

Government works with the Acadian and francophone community to build relationships, gather input, and work towards common goals.

Community consultations

Government institutions consulted with the public in various ways in 2014–2015, including online surveys, telephone consultations, focus groups, and face-to-face meetings. Here are some examples of consultations which sought input from the Acadian and francophone community.

- The participation of four staff members from the Conseil scolaire acadien provincial (CSAP) at an 8-day seminar provided by l'Association canadienne d'éducation de langue française (ACELF), focusing on training, exchanges, and reflection on the identity of the francophone minority.
- A professional development session for Early-Childhood Development teachers within the Centre provincial de ressources préscolaires (CPRPS), focusing on how to use games within learning spaces to create an environment that is creative, imaginative, and welcoming.

Departmental Highlights for 2014-2015

Government departments, offices, and agencies continue to work to improve the services that they offer in French. The following offers some examples on progress in French-language services as identified by the respective departments, offices, and agencies. This is not an exhaustive list; more detail can be found in individual annual French-language services plans.
